COUNCIL ACTS FOR RECREATION PLAN

Godwin Will Ask Parents To Work Out With City Plan To Provide Play

Carmel's city council has come to the realization that something must be done, municipally, toward a permanent plan for providing recreation for the youth of the city.

The matter was brought up at the meeting of the council Wednesday night by Councilman Fred Godwin, and discussion was held among the councilmen and with citizens in the lobby.

It was discovered that individually, at least, two members of the council had already been doing something about the problem. Godwin had been studying the possibilities of using facilities for recreation adjacent to Carmel, and Councilman McCreery has been actually supervising pilgrimages of boys up the valley for week-end play.

Godwin pointed out that indications are for a big drop in visitors to Carmel this summer, but for the same reason people will not be coming—the tire problem and possible gasoline rationing—Carmel families will remain at home with their children.

The suggestion came from the lobby that a group of parents, not only residents of the city of Carmel, but of the adjoining districts, who are vitally interested in the matter of healthful recreation for their children, be summoned to confer with the council and discuss a plan for the establishment of a permanent recreation center for all the Carmel district children. Efforts toward this end will be made this week-end.

In the meantime Godwin and McCreery will further their efforts toward increasing the activities they are already engaged in along this line and in investigating the possibilities of using recreation facilities in other parts of the Peninsula.

It looks very much as though the Carmel government intends to follow through on this so vital matter of providing a recreation center in this city.

Flower Show Opens Today at Sunset

The Carmel P.-T. A. Flower Show takes place today and tomorrow at Sunset School. It takes the place this year of the annual food show which raises the funds necessary for welfare work among the pupils. The hours are 1:30 to 5 p. m.; 7 to 9:30 p. m.

The show will be held in the lunch room of the school which has been beautifully and originally decorated. There will be flowers, plants and shrubs, provided principally by pupils, for sale.

Besides the help to the welfare fund, ten per cent of the receipts will be given to the Red Cross.

Fort Ord Boss To Talk at Forum Tonight

Col. Roger S. Fitch, Fort Ord commandant, will talk to Carmel May 8 about the great army camp in our midst. His subject, before the Carmel Forum at Sunset School, will be "Fort Ord and Its Relation to Neighboring Civilian Communities". He will be accompanied by several members of his staff who will each give a short talk on various activities at the huge military post and their effect on the civilian population.

Here's Chance To Cut Down Carmel Tap Rooms

Action of the State Board of Equalization in indefinitely suspending the license of the Snack tap room and giving the owner 60 days in which to vacate the premises provides Carmel with a chance to reduce the number of on-sale liquor-selling places in town.

The Cymbal still stands on its contention that it would be far better for this community if there were no tap rooms here at all, but there are and there seems to be no method by which they can be eradicated. However, to reduce the number would be something, being as how we have, in the past three years, permitted an increase of two.

We are sorry for Dave Arnold that he has lost his business, as legitimate under the law as any other liquor-selling place, but that's how it is, and for the good of the community we should take advantage of this opportunity to try to make permanent this reduction of the number of our tap rooms.

This may be difficult to accomplish. By the silliest sort of rule imaginable the State Board of Equalization, while it limits the number of on-sale liquor licenses in the state to the present total, permits the transfer of a license within any county. There will be, then, with the suspension of Dave Arnold's permit, a license running loose in Carmel. It can be transferred under the board's ruling to any qualified person in the county.

The Cymbal suggests that Mayor Keith Evans call a special meeting of the city council to take formal action in beseeching that liquor license in Carmel.

It would be a help if citizens write to members of the council, call them by telephone or speak to them on the street in protest against a transfer of this license for operation in this city.

A Music Season Highlight! Male Chorus Presets Its Spring Concert Sunday

The Peninsula Male Chorus, the club it shouldn't be much under the direction of Jaffrey Harris, will present its second annual Spring Concert Sunday, May 10, at 3 p. m., in Sunset Auditorium. The concert is one of the highlights of the music season in Carmel.

As guest artist this time is Dolores Miller, 16-year-old violinist, who will play eight numbers, including works by Sarasate, Kreisler, Brahms and Moussorgsky. Miss Miller, who recently won a nationwide contest for a scholarship at the Juillard Music School in New York, has played with the NBC Orchestra under Stokowski, and has appeared with the San Francisco Orchestra. Admission is free to everyone but tickets must be obtained from club members. With 32 members in the program Sunday will be:

SAYS THE EDITOR

GO CLIMB A TREE DEPARTMENT

Frank Lloyd driving down Sixth street with a load of manure. He calls out to us: "I'm still in the newspaper business."

CONGRATULATIONS, STAN

We have a cup of coffee with Stan Delaplane at Walt's one Sunday and by the next he is announced as having won the Pulitzer prize for the best newspaper reporting for the year. Quite swell. Stan and his mother, the very lovely Mrs. Delaplane, lived in Carmel for a number of years when he was a series of stories on the "State of Jefferson" in the San Francisco Chronicle.

"BALM FOR BREASTS THAT HAVE BEEN BRUISED"

On another page of this issue of The Cymbal we are printing "A Column for Army Wives". It was suggested to us eloquently by an army wife; so eloquently, in fact, that it became obvious that she and she alone should write it. When we received and read the manuscript that fact became even more obvious. In the vernacular of the street, she's got something there, we believe. She ought to know the troubles that beset her sisters; the blank spaces that need to be hurdled, or filled with things. We believe that she has made a good beginning in suggesting the fillings. We agree with her that Carmel should want to help to provide; we agree with her that Carmel is capable of doing it.

WE RECOMMEND

The Carmel P.-T. A. Garden Show at Sunset School tomorrow and Saturday afternoons and evenings promises to be something extra special. While it is an effort on the part of the Parent-Teachers Association to raise money for its pupils' welfare fund, taking the place of the food sale which has been an annual event of the past for this purpose, this event promises to be one of the most delightful affairs of the year. Under the direction of Mrs. Horace Dormody, the members of the various committees have worked hard to make this flower show worth a great deal more than you'll pay to see it, and the flowers, shrubs and plants to be sold of considerable more value than the price to be asked for them.

This is a day when things to be craved are those that take your mind off. The Carmel P.-T. A. Flower Show will do this in an aura of beauty and interest.

WE SUGGEST THE ARMY DO MORE POLICING

The Carmel police, and the Monterey force as well, are complaining that while they are understood to deal gently with the soldiers who are responsible for disturbances in the two communities and turn them over to the M. P.s on duty, that the M. P.s are not of sufficient number to do a satisfactory job, and those on duty are somewhat apathetic about their work.

We are endeavoring to be very circumspect about this criticism as we know the consequences of criticizing the authorities in time of war, but we have seen and heard enough to warrant the expression of our opinion that the police of the two cities are justified in their complaint. There have been several instances of soldiers "running wild", to put it mildly, and little effort on the part of the military police to cope with the situation.

An outrageous affair (again putting it mildly) at the top of the Ocean Avenue Hill early Thursday morning is a case in point. Five soldiers driven by a Monterey taxi driver, forced a private car off the road and after beating up the two men in it, dragged the wife of one of them out of the car and into a lot by the side of the road. The fact that she was in a condition rendering her incapable of knowing what happened to her doesn't much mitigate the seriousness of the thing.

If the city police are expected to "lay off" the soldiers and let the military police handle them, is it too much to ask that the military police do a little more of it?

There's one chief of police on the Peninsula who is having a nice, easy time of it. He is Mike Stalter of Pacific Grove.

There's no liquor sold in Pacific Grove.

USO Program for Women Offers Many Things

Under the slogan: "Women on the home front must be physically fit, mentally alert, spiritually strong" the Carmel and Monterey USO has sent out the following schedule of classes for Army Wives and girls employed at Fort Ord:

Tuesday—9 to 11 a. m.—Tennis instruction and playing on Monterey High School courts.

Tuesday—2 to 3:30 p. m.—Slimlining and Posture, Carmel USO.

Tuesday—5:15 to 6:45 p. m.—Slimlining and Posture, Badminton and Ping Pong, Monterey USO.

Wednesday—11 a. m.—Bicycle riding, Carmel USO. (There will be a small charge.)

Thursday—4 to 5 p. m.—Slimlining and Posture, Carmel USO.

Friday—10 to 11:30 a. m.—Slimlining and Posture, Badminton and Ping Pong, Monterey USO.

For further information call USO-YWCA, 4154.

A COLUMN FOR ARMY WIVES

We're glad to have you with us in Carmel. And the purpose of this column is to tell you something about Carmel in the hope that you might find some reasons to be a little glad you're here with us. We know how troubled you are right now. Without claiming to be able to make you entirely happy, we do think we can help you through this trying period of waiting.

You see, here in Carmel we believe pretty strongly in self-expression. The days go by very quickly for someone who is making something out of his own heart and brain. That's why we have an extensive program of what for want of a better phrase, we call "Adult Education".

Think back to the time when you were sixteen. Wasn't there something you were going to do before that man drafted you for cooking, cleaning and sewing? Was it writing? Was it painting? Was it dress designing? Maybe it was acting.

It's hard to believe the girl ever lived who never wanted to play Juliet. If you have an ambition to act buried deep in your heart, here's what you can do about it.

Herbert Heron, an actor, gathers a group of people every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings in the Seven Arts Building on the corner of Ocean Avenue and Lincoln. It's nothing like a formal classroom. You wander in—introduce yourself to Mr. Heron—and join the group around the fireplace. A play will be selected and parts assigned. Before you know, it you'll find yourself living in another time, speaking the lines written by the great dramatists, and spoken before you, by the great actresses. You avoid all the pangs of stage fright because every one there is intent on his own part and there is no audience. And you get all of the fun of acting a part. What lasting good can this do you? Well, we can't promise you'll find your name in lights as a result. We can promise you that you will learn to make a better use of your voice, that you'll renew your acquaintance with the great plays, and read some you might otherwise never know. We can promise you more enjoyment in watching plays in the future since you'll have a new insight on the tricks and difficulties of acting.

But theatre isn't all Carmel has to offer you. If your talents and ambitions lie in other directions, see Mr. Getsinger at Sunset School, San Carlos and Ninth streets. He'll be able to tell you about the amazing variety of interest you can follow in Carmel, from creative writing to shorthand and typing.

Or if you're in doubt about the subject you want to take up call us here at The Cymbal office. We're not psychologists and we don't claim to be able to tell you what your avocation should be. But perhaps just talking it out will develop what it is you want to do.

If you can look past the hurt of separation maybe you can see this time as something like an opportunity. For a while you are going to belong to yourself again. And you may find something in yourself now, you would otherwise never have suspected was there. Not a great gift, perhaps, but very possibly a definite talent. Or at least a hobby that could enrich all the rest of your life and make you a more interesting person for that soldier to return to.

We believe Carmel can help you to find you.

It's worth thinking about.

Exhibit at Carmel Art Gallery May 21

The Carmel Art Gallery is at last going to have a new exhibit. The show will have oils, watercolors, black and whites, and pastels. Artists who intend to have work in the gallery must get their paintings in before May 18.

On May 20 there will be an opening reception at 8 p. m. for the association members, their guests and members of the press.

A. W. V. S. Offers Women Skills Training

Offering training to women which will make them capable of assisting war-work organizations and the Army and Navy in time of need, the Monterey Peninsula Unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services has opened offices on the mezzanine floor of Hotel Del Monte, placed at their disposal by S. F. B. Morse.

Miss Mary Jepp, chairman of the unit, stresses the aim of the A. W. V. S. which is to work WITH and in other organizations when the need arises for skilled services of women in such branches of service as code and communications, convoy duty, truck driving, switch-board operating, signalling, etc. Classes in such instruction are being arranged for now.

"We appeal particularly to women now in what are called 'luxury' jobs which may not last long under the present stress and war preparation," Miss Jepp says. "They want to know what they can do to earn their livings if their present jobs fade out. We meet that contingency. We will train them in paying war-time jobs."

Miss Jepp appeals to women register with the unit at once. You can do so by calling at the office in Hotel Del Monte or by telephoning the hotel and asking for Extension 11.

LOUIS TURANGO, SEAMAN, FIRST CLASS, VISITS US

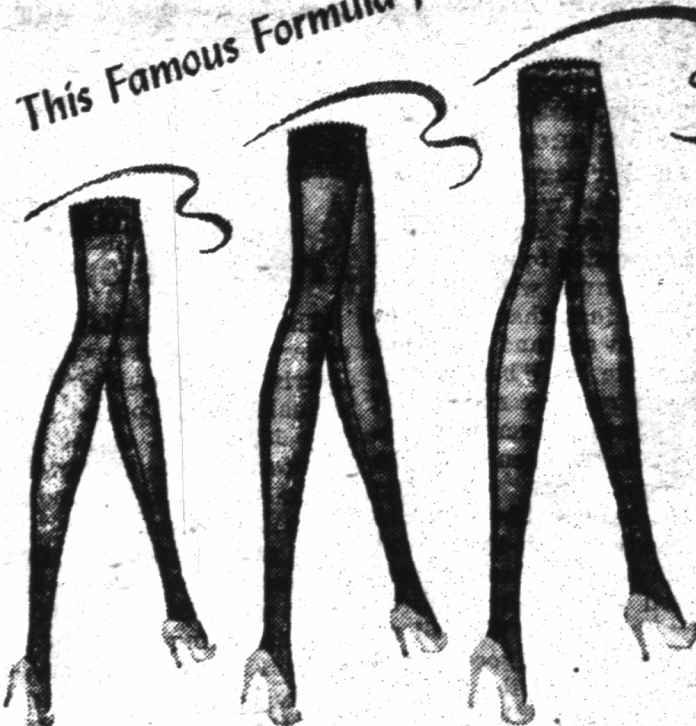

Another of the Carmel boys who didn't wait to be drafted was in Carmel last week for a few days' visit. It's Louis Turango who enlisted in the Navy early in 1940 and who has seen action at Pearl Harbor. Louis visited Mrs. Roy Fraties and had some fascinating stories to tell all his old friends. He's gone again now—destination a secret, of course.

Kuster To Star At Musical Art Program

The Musical Art Club announces that Edward Gerhard Kuster, cellist, and Mrs. Gabrielle Kuster, soprano, will be the headliners on the club's latest presentation to be given in the lounge at Hotel Del Monte, May 7, at 3 p. m.

Also on the program are Miss Angie Machado, pianist, and Carl Bensberg, baritone. The Kusters will play a composition written by Elaine Lavrans.

This will be a program for members and by members. A business meeting for election of officers will be held at 2:30 p. m.

What this all amounts to is that the Ted Kusters are going to prove that there are other things in their lives besides "Elephant Boy."

Adrian Beach Has Startling Show

A very interesting one-man show, presented by Adrian Beach, opened last Saturday, May 2, at the Sketch Box Gallery in the Seven Arts Court on Lincoln Street. Adrian's paintings and sketches were well-arranged and the subject matter so widely varied that one could stay there for hours just ruminating over the artist's intentions alone. Many people ask what he was thinking of when he painted many of his canvases. . . he will usually give quite a lucid explanation for the more complex works. . . and one gets a very different viewpoint of these slightly surrealistic impressionistic phantasies when their meaning is interpreted. It was a very enthusiastic group of people who gathered at the gallery to have tea, courtesy of Ellen Habenicht and Mrs. Laidlaw Williams. . . and the opening of Adrian Beach's show was a tremendous success. Rumor hath it that he already has sold some three or four pictures as a result. Remember to go if you haven't been there. . . Seven Arts Court on Lincoln. . . up on the balcony.

MAYOR EVANS TO TELL ABOUT CIVILIAN DEFENSE

At the Civilian Defense Forum Friday, May 22, Mayor Keith Evans of Carmel, will give a resume of the defense activities and there will be opportunity to ask questions and have general discussion. It is hoped that they can show you an incendiary bomb demonstration as well as a few other aids to defense at the close of the Forum. The time and more details will be given next week.

MRS. SCHLOH DIES

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Augusta Schloh who died Sunday evening after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Schloh, a resident of Carmel for the past year and a half, was in her home on Monte Verde street when death came. A native of Hanover, Germany, she is survived by her husband, Ferdinand Schloh, and two daughters, Mrs. Harold Mack of Del Monte and Mrs. Edna Marriott of Carmel.

The Rev. Justine P. Follette officiated at the services held in the Schloh home.

USO Head De-Glamours Ann Sheridan In His Bitterness at Our Censure of Her Tour of Country's Army Camps

Editor, The Carmel Cymbal, Carmel, California.

It was quite as much a shock to us as it was to "W. K. B.", according to his column in your issue of April 3, to read the alleged description of the dress-ess Miss Ann Sheridan was to appear in in her then proposed tour of Army Camps. Since it is obvious that W. K. B. intended his column to be constructive, I am sure you will be glad, as he will, to have the following information regarding that tour, which was under the sponsorship of USO-Camp Shows through the cooperation of its West Coast Committee.

I attach hereto mimeographed extracts from newspaper reports regarding her appearance, which can, of course, be checked by reference to newspaper files. I call your attention particularly to this quotation from the "Junction City, Kansas, Union" of March 26: "She was wearing a simple black crepe frock this morning"; to the extract from "The Fort Riley Guidon" issue of March 27: "At last night's performance she wore a grayish-black gown, with a modestly-cut bodice"; to the extract from the "Wyoming Eagle" of Cheyenne issue of March 26: "Clad in a conservative black formal."

I also take pleasure in enclosing photographs sent to us of Miss Sheridan at the camps. I am sure you will agree that, neither in costume nor in pose, can the "mothers of young girls in towns adjacent to Army Camps" find anything to which exception can be taken.

Finally, I ask you to read with care the description of Miss Sheridan's visit to Fort Francis E. Warren, as given in the March 27 issue of the "Camp Paper", and the story by Sergeant Byron Herbert of Fort Leonard Wood, which appeared in the St. Louis "Daily Globe Democrat" of April 5.

Regardless of what a press agent may have written, or a columnist, all credit is due to a young woman who, without pay or compensation except the appreciation of the men whom she visited, at considerable sacrifice of comfort and time and under the hard conditions of daily trooping, made a positive contribution according to her abilities to the war effort.

May I close with this thought: To men for whom the rigors of Army life and the stern necessity of war-time discipline are a new and trying experience, a touch of femininity serves as a link between the realities of the present and the hopes of the future. Somewhere between the excesses of a press agent's imagination and the monotony of an Army uniform, there is room for feminine grace and even frivolity. Surely within the bounds of the facts as presented, neither W. K. B. nor anyone else should deny to Miss Sheridan the courtesy of an appreciation of her effort to do her part in the service of her country.

The next time there seems reason for criticism, won't you ask us for the facts and then condemn or praise on that basis?

Sincerely yours,

LAWRENCE PHILLIPS
Executive Vice-President
U.S.O.-CAMP SHOWS, Inc.
8 West 40th Street, New York.

My dear Mr. Phillips:

You are truly a remarkably efficient person. If I were running a USO-Camp Shows, Inc. organization I would consider myself fortunate in having you as the executive vice-president. I feel after reading your letter that there is no problem that you could not successfully tackle and deal with to the confusion all opposing forces, human or inanimate. In the space of a sheet and a half of standardized letter paper, aided by a few well-chosen newspaper clippings, you have rendered Ann Sheridan completely sexless. I could say with impunity, knowing my Carmel public and its canine consciousness, that you have spayed her. I'm wondering, though whether Miss Sheridan is going to appreciate your brilliance in this case. You know, she has been drawing her Hollywood checks on the strength of being just about the antithesis of what you have so eloquently pictured her in your epistle to The Cymbal.

Barbara Winslow In S. F. Hospital

The Red Cross has just received the following letter from Mrs. Colden H. Whitman:

My dear Dr. Taubles:

I want to express my most sincere thanks to you and the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross for the great help given the Barbara Winslow case.

Miss King's expert knowledge, advice and help in every way made it possible for us to place Barbara in the Stanford University Hospital in San Francisco.

Will you please thank the Chapter also for the use of their Red Cross Ambulance, and the Carmel Valley Unit Motor Corps for the magnificent performance of transportation of a very serious case done by Helen Heavey and Katherine Van Dyke. Also Mrs. Phelps for her thoughtfulness in arranging police escort through the cities of Salinas, San Jose and San Francisco. Helen Heavey's handling of the ambulance and her cooperation with the police escort through heavy traffic was an inspiring demonstration of expert driving under pressure.

With kindest personal regards and sincere thanks to the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross,

Yours very sincerely,
—Kit Whitman.

"Alice in Wonderland" To Be Theme Of Ruth Austin Dance Pupils' Recital

Ruth Austin, as Carmel has grown to expect—nay, demand, has come forth with another whopper of an idea for the annual recital of her dancing students. Already having hit the bullseye with her "Carmel Ballet" and her "Circus" presented in the past, she will, through her students, present as the main theme of the program scenes from Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland."

The idea will be presented in three scenes, that one in which Alice fluctuates her height by eating several small cakes; then the Caucus race in which everyone starts when he wants to, leaves off when he pleases, and in which everyone is a winner; and the last scene is that of the very confusing trial.

Cynthia Carr is the regular Alice, Jennifer Lloyd the big Alice, and tiny Rene Wurzmahn, just three, is little Alice. In the Caucus race are Elisabeth Gilbert, Schatzi Herron, Marcia Kuster, and Carol Timbers. The trial scene is made up of Cynthia Carr, Mavis Jones, Emma Schmutz, Nancy McCarthy, Mary Henderson, Sheila Whitaker, Dolores Sharp, Ann Ferrante, Jennifer Lloyd, Patricia Timbers, Barbara Clark, Margaret Rigdon and Susan Stoney.

There will also be the regular groups which will participate according to age and type of dance. The first group, made up of girls three and four years old, will do with the grace and lack of self-consciousness that all very small folk seem to have, a very impressive giant and fairy number. The petit performers will be Rene Wurzmahn, Barbara Babcock, Mary Ann Odell, Gretchen Herron, Carol Ann Rice, and Margaret Schmutz.

The six-year-old group, made up of Patty Finley, Jane Bond, Janet Gorman, Nancy Veit, Margaret Clark, Sybil Kocher, Bee Williams, Joan Burk, Margaret Schmutz, and Penny Bestor, will present five numbers of a Grieg suite.

A class composed entirely of Monterey girls will illustrate technique, and do a "skip" dance. Polly McKay, Sheila McKay, Patricia Ann Easton, Sheryl Youngman, Joan Bambauer, and Dion Zaches are the dancers.

The last group will present one modern and one oriental composition. Joan Carr, Kraig Short, Gretchen Geyer, Patricia Gorman, June Kocher, Emily Markham and Anne Markham will be the interpreters. Kraig Short will solo in the Oriental number.

At the piano as usual will be Susie Ellen Duvall. The recital will be held in the Austin studio in the Mission Tract on Saturday and Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It will be an invitational affair as the seating capacity of the studio is quite small.

"Deserted at Altar" Three Times More

Three more performances of "Deserted at the Altar", and the Troupers of the Gold Coast will have one week-end vacation from trouping before they open in a new show. Tomorrow night and next Saturday and Sunday nights, May 9, 16, 17, are the concluding play dates, providing the final and only opportunity to see the First Theater actors in their latest thriller and its olio.

Light Opera Season Opens May 11 in San Francisco with "Bitter Sweet"

San Francisco will have one of its most brilliant seasons of light opera when the third light opera festival opens at the Curran Theatre, May 11 with Noel Coward's masterpiece, "Bitter Sweet".

Presented jointly by the recently organized San Francisco Civic Light Opera Association, of which S. Laz Lansburgh is president, and the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association, with Edwin Lester as general director, the season lists four great operettas, introducing famous singing, dancing and comedy stars of opera, stage and screen.

"Bitter Sweet", the opening attraction, will co-star Muriel Angelus and John Howard. Miss Angelus is one of England's most brilliant singing actresses, well remembered for having appeared in "Balalaika" in London, and the New York smash hit, "The Boys from Syracuse". She will have the role of Lady Shane.

John Howard, distinguished dramatic actor and singer of stage and screen, is being presented on the Pacific Coast for the first time in a romantic singing role.

Second offering of the season will be "The Vagabond King", the week of May 18, with four brilliant vocal artists: Bob Lawrence of the St. Louis Municipal Opera; Dorothy Sandlin, Marthe Errolle and Robert Stanford. John Carradine will appear as Louis XI, with Melville Cooper and Vera Marsh completing the cast.

"Hit the Deck", the riotous musical comedy by Vincent Youman, will be staged the week beginning June 1. Frank Albertson, Joan Roberts and Waters will head the large cast.

Final offering of the season, beginning June 8, will mark the return of John Charles Thomas, America's foremost baritone, in "Music in the Air", the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein hit. Irma Petina, Metropolitan and San Francisco Opera Company star, and Francis Lederer, one of the country's most eminent stage personages, will appear with Thomas.

JAMES E. CROWTHER, D. D.

You've doubtless heard the old statistic "Everytime you take a breath a baby is born somewhere in the world."

What could be a more fitting entrance for a preacher than to come into the world on someone else's breath. The year was the year of the B. & O. strike. We could say more about this, only we won't even tell our best friend. But the year was unimportant in comparison with the new and shining personality when, pink and pretty, James E. Crowther opened his mouth and for the first time began to lay down the law.

He was English; not because he particularly wanted to be, but because his father and mother were. This sort of narrowness down his chances of being anything else. As he was English he had to choose his birthplace with care. An Englishman can't be born just anywhere. It has to have some name like Oldham, Wolverhampton, Walthamstow, Tottenham, East Ham, or Nottingham. (My word, enough ham there to start another Shakespeare Festival). So Kiddy Crowther made his first appearance in Burnley, Lancashire, England.

His Father Was White

His father's name was Thomas Crowther. How little James beamed with pride the first time he heard the other men saying "That Tom Crowther, he's white!" It wasn't until many years later that he discovered that his father worked in the cotton mill and what the men were talking about was the lint on his blue serge suit.

At the age of ten, Young Crowther himself joined the force at the mill. He soon found there was quite a difference between being fired and getting the sack. It was the first, but far from the last time that he stuffed a bunch of old bags. He worked ten hours a day, and received 75 cents a week which amounts to about a hundred-dollar-a-week salary with all the present day income, state, county, city, and dog taxes deducted.

At the age of 17, while still he "ground exceeding small", he prepared and preached his first sermon. From there on in, it was give and take; he'd give a sermon and then take the collection. (This, in the vocabulary of the lay preacher, may be interpreted as meaning "Oh, boy, we eat!") He later traveled from one church to another giving sermon after sermon. Because of his size, you might call him a short circuit preacher.

He Docked at South Dakota

In 1901, being quite a lad, he stepped out into the world to seek his fortune. Starting from Liverpool, he sailed to America, landing in South Dakota, (we think it was quite clever of the boat). He, James, the youth, discovered that he was able to work his way through college. But first there were the matters of the rest of grammar school and all of high school to be caught up with. James was undaunted. He rolled up his mental sleeves and within six years was graduating from Dakota Wesleyan, a liberal arts college. (No, no, the name is Crowther, not Superman). He took the junior and senior years at the same time, and found a few spare minutes to edit the school journal, called "Phreno-Cosmian", meaning World Brain, and, brother, he wasn't kidding. He also conducted a missionary convention each week, preached five times every Sunday, and conducted a campaign to remove saloons from the college town. He succeeded and was decorated for bravery on the "field of bottle."

He then moved on to Northwestern University. While he was giving the valedictorian speech the tail of Halley's comet was just passing over that part of the country. There was something a little ignominious about giving a speech to the tail end of anything.

He Had a Duster

While at N. W. he entered an oratorical contest. His theme was on Oliver Cromwell, whom only the British and the very intelligent Americans know anything about. When he won first prize, he was so astounded he couldn't say a word—he talked for a half hour. Then he won the state contest and next the interstate contest. This, we must remember, was all done under several extreme handicaps. He had a Lancashire accent so thick it could be used to stuff up the loop holes in the law. Not only that, but he had a gigantic mustache that reached practically to his collar bones. Why, three times before his speech was concluded, he flagged down the Chicago Limited with his cookie duster.

In 1910, he was taken on the American Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church. He had charge of the outgoing candidates. "Now, who's going out next? Jones? No, he's a blond. The cannibals on Malekula prefer dark meat). The finance department, (Oh, come now, Hodgeskins, three from your plate this week. You can tell if they're real by biting 'em) and the editorial department. He was a busy man.

In 1915 he was sent by the American Board to Africa to give the foreign missions the once over. Let us tell you, in Africa, things looked black for a while. Most natives are naturally fresh, but you should see some of the lip Missionary Crowther was forced to take from those Ubangis. He was in the Dark Continent for seven months and finally had to leave before he died of strangulation from trying to pronounce the names of various African villages and rivers.

In 1916 he became pastor of a church in Seattle. Seattle is near Puget Sound. Most Seattleites don't talk about Puget except in whispers. It isn't really as bad as it sounds. It was while he was in Seattle that the American Board asked that Dr. Crowther be released from the church (sounds as if they had to keep him bound and gagged, doesn't it? Well?) to superintend the centenary celebration in honor of the founding of the Methodist Missionary work. They were going to furnish $1,000,000 for the occasion (about enough for the bridge and helm of the modern battleship). And so the great pageant, "The Wayfarer", came into creation. Dr. Crowther wrote the script, and arranged the music which was mostly that of the great masters. It had its opening at Columbus, Ohio, and even the great Genoese explorer himself never received an ovation the size of the one the "The Wayfarer" got. It almost caused as much stir as "Gone With the Wind" which sounds as though it might have been written by a preacher also. The production moved on to Madison Square Gardens where it ran for five weeks, closing only because a cat show was moving in the next day. If there's one thing a preacher can't stand up against it's a bunch of cats. It staggered on to Seattle with very little to do but sit around and hear the ocean making Puget Sound.

From Seattle he went on to Philadelphia, St. Louis, Denver and, finally, San Jose. Then in 1940, Crowther cornered Carmel. He came here just after the new Community Church had been opened and dubbed it "The Church of the Wayfarer."

And there he stands today practically hidden amongst the shhhh! — Italian bric-a-brac, with absolutely no one to keep him company but the termites. Dr. James E. Crowther, B. A. M. A. B. D. D. D. P. D. Q. and O. U. Kid, not fisherman, but fisher of man (for origin of this phrase please consult Dr. Crowther for two minutes and a laugh).

He has but one real hobby, and that is architecture. He has the floor plans of every cathedral in Great Britain. Why, we don't know, unless he likes to read the war news and be able to look at a pile of debris and say, "Yes, sir, that's Westminster Abbey all over."

Oh, yes, way back in the beginning we forgot to tell you the very first two things he did when he came to this country. One was gasp, and the second was immediately to take out his citizenship papers. That's what he thought of America.

Snack Is Closed By State Board

The State Board of Equalization, meeting Wednesday in Sacramento, indefinitely suspended the liquor license of the Snack tap room in Carmel.

The suspension was ordered on the recommendation of Commissioner George R. Reilly. The member of the board from this district cited the Snack for failure to cooperate with the Board of Equalization in enforcing rules issued by the military authorities.

The specific charge against the place was that it sold alcoholic beverages to a man in uniform out of the prescribed hours of from 6 p. m. to 10 p. m. The operator of the Snack was given 60 days to vacate the premises.

High School Visit

It was open house a week ago Wednesday up at Carmel High School. I didn't get there until a few minutes before three-thirty. This was partly because I had no special object in view except to show my interest—partly because the only way I like to climb is down, and so waited until such time as I could get transportation up, to the top of the hill.

Not having any definite ideas of what I was supposed to do, I was just bright enough to go to the office for guidance. Here it was promptly suggested by a smiling staff that I might like to see the Fashion Show scheduled for 3:30 in the Home Economics department where, at the moment, tea was being served. This sounded like an excellent idea! Conveyed by a charming young lady named Doris Evans I reached the Home Economics room and the tea table at the rear of it. Good hot tea was being served in cups of generous size. It seemed a pity there weren't more gentlemen present to appreciate those cups.

Delicious Cookies and Perfect Sandwiches

If the tea was the work of the cooking end of the Home Economics department, and I understood it was, then it was a grand advertisement for that group of students. The various cookies were crisp and delicious. It was tough to have to remember to be a parent and a lady, who mustn't be greedy! Virtuously, I took only one cookie and one sandwich. The sandwiches were of that elegant species which you just know couldn't ever have had any truck with plebeian breadcrusts; neat little three-decker rectangles, easy to handle and just my idea of the perfect sandwich for afternoon tea.

Sipping my tea and nibbling my cookie and sandwich I studied the scene. You never saw such a bright, light, cheerful, airy sort of room! One wall all glass windows, the others delicately tinted plaster. The cabinets and drawers, streamlined and modern in design, are made of light wood, shiningly spotless and as new-looking as if the school had opened only the day before. At the opposite end from the tea table everything was in readiness for the Fashion Show; a small raised platform was covered with white cloth and flanked by proud calla lilies.

Almost a Flower Show

At various spots around the room were placed bowls and vases of flowers. Against the plain, light walls the brilliant colors of the flowers sang out with sharp, clear notes. I found myself gazing at a cluster of double nasturtiums, whose bright gold was cleverly accented by a few mingling sprays of a deep purple flower, and thinking I could go on looking and looking for a long time before I tired of the beauty of it. Around the corner on another cabinet stood an arrangement of vivid, purple-crimson pelargoniums. Just as I was silently taking them in, my left-hand neighbor remarked, and there was honest bewilderment in her voice, "Why, we always thought those common geraniums weren't any better than weeds! I'm always trying to get rid of them. But I see they look real pretty in this room! I wonder if it's the plain walls?"

Partly that, no doubt, but credit also must go to the clever hands and artistic eyes of those who arranged the flowers and placed them. I forget now how many different kinds there were, but surely half a dozen—and each separate from the others, a little gem of a flower-arrangement picture.

I had just time to get acquainted with three or four mothers and finish my tea when the 3:30 bell rang and the Fashion Show promptly went into action.

Welcome to the Fashion Show

It started with a welcome to the audience by Sheldardine Waters, who explained the work of the Home Economics department. This was followed by a short exposition by Jean Timmins on the cooking classes, including the fact that the boys also learn to cook, exactly as the girls do. A very fine idea, whichever way you look at it!

Then, with comment and introduction from the mistress of ceremonies, the girls walked in, one by one, up the aisle beside the admiring audience, back to the front where they mounted the little dais, turned around once to the accompaniment of appreciative clapping, and stepped down to make way for the next charming model. There were sports clothes first—cute bare midriff play dresses, practical work frocks; then circular skirts, simple school dresses, semi-formals, and the grand finale of Betty Smith in a real formal, made shirtwaist style, with a long full skirt of electric blue silk.

The show was a convincing demonstration that dressmaking is a popular course and I feel sure all the girls get good marks in it. They certainly all rate having their names mentioned, and so here is the list of the models who showed the work done under the supervision of the Home Economics teacher, Miss Martha Groth: Irene Erickson, Edith Cox, Carol Canoles, Betty Smith, Rose Gossler, Martha Rico, Rose Raibourn, Maxine Chappell, Nancy Towler, Lillis Harris, June Davis, Marjorie Gunn, Dorris Westcott and Eileen McElDowney.

Special mention should go, as they say, to Carol Canoles for the graceful way she walked and for her general poise as she displayed her costume on the stand.

The girls who were responsible for the tea were Jean Timmins, Ann Casati, Helen Passadori, Virginia Shepard, Kraig Short, Jean Staniford, Joyce Waite and Betty Fonteneau.

Sightseeing Tour

After the show was over some of us went to take a look at the nearly-finished cafeteria and gymnasium. Both of them present such huge acres of virgin floor space that I felt like one of a cluster of flies in the corner of a plate glass shop window!

Mr. Shelby Allen acted as guide. He's the state building inspector, who is there to see that when specifications call for six nails to a particular board, half a dozen (6 only) nails get hammered into that board.

We learned that, while there wasn't money enough to do all that the original plans called for, everything is built exactly as firmly, solidly and thoroughly as it was designed to be. It's just that a few extras had to be abandoned. Mr. Allen remarked regretfully that the smaller music rooms, which were to have been strung along the farther side of the cafeteria, I believe, were part of the discard. His personal interest in these music rooms was explained shortly when he led from there into the subject of his sons. We're still feeling a little dazzled by hearing about the two trombone-playing young Allens, one 6 feet, 6½ inches, the other a mere six feet two or thereabout! The short one—maybe I should say the less tall one!—acquired glory by winning a national trombone contest for California and is now teaching down south in a school sparkling with movie stars' children. The tall one is in the army—more than that, he's a member of the U. S. Army Band in Washington. And that's something for his father and mother to be proud of! You can't blame them if they ease the conversation around to music when they get a chance.

Both School and View Are Beautiful

As we came up from the gym and stood silent for a few moments, held by the afternoon lights and shadows on the green hills across the valley, one of us remarked, as people always do, "Not many high schools have as beautiful a view as this!"

Promptly came Mr. Allen's emphatic assertion: "There isn't another high school in the state with a view as wonderful as this!"

He gets around considerably so it's likely he knows what he's talking about. We're willing to believe it anyhow! —D. C. B.

Navy Enlistments Are High Here

A change in Naval regulations and a lowering of requirements have resulted in an increase of enlistments into the Navy for the month of April.

High school and college students may now enlist and continue their schooling. Also, the Navy is accepting Filipino nationals and American-Chinese in the Mess Attendants branch.

Many young men are applying for enlistment in the Naval Aviation branch, Class V-5 because educational requirements have been lowered. Men between the ages of 18 and 25, with high school educations, may now enlist in the Navy for training as Aviation Cadets. Those from Carmel who listed in the Navy through Salinas recruiting office during the month of April are: Paul Mark Joseph, Glenn Frederick Leidig and Richard Zimmerman.

MEET YOUR SENIOR WARDENS Precinct 4 Needs Block Wardens

Senior Air Raid Warden Hugh Comstock says: "I've been working at this job for about six weeks now. When I took over I found that the Women's Auxiliary in this precinct had done a splendid piece of work in arranging the statistics. Files and maps were all in excellent shape."

"Our Block Wardens are largely hard-working business men who find it a real task to fit in the extra work of Civilian Defense with the everlasting job of making a living. However, they have been faithful in attending classes and fine about giving up their own leisure to make the precinct safe."

"I do have more uncovered blocks than I like to see. We may need to ask some of the women to take over the work of Block Wardens in some cases. At any event, any one in this territory who wishes to volunteer for Block Warden service can always reach me at telephone 1307. I'll be more than glad to interview volunteers."

Mr. Comstock has gone into the Senior Air Warden business with the same efficiency he always used in working on civic affairs in Carmel. He has installed an extra telephone in his "office" in his home; has all his maps and files at hand, and you can see at once that he is giving the job all the attention of a competent business man.

Leidig Appeals for Business District Clean-Up

Robert G. Leidig, for many years chief of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department, and now fire marshal for the city, has sent out to the business men of the community an appeal for a clean-up of their premises and the removal of all unnecessary burnable material.

He closes his appeal so:

"America calls on you to make it your business to do your part in the campaign against fire, put your house in order, clear your home and business of unnecessary burnable materials, check your electric system, prohibit smoking in garages, basements, storerooms and other out-of-the-way places."

"What would a disastrous fire in your business at this time mean to you? Would it mean the difference between being in business and making money or being out of business and losing money?"

"Statistics show that 42 out of every 100 business establishments that are wiped out by fire never resume business."

"A fire survey of your business establishments will be made soon, the purpose of the survey is to show how causes of preventable fires can be eliminated."

"Let's all cooperate to make our city fire safe."

Salvage Drive Is Great Success

"Will the people follow instructions? Will they separate and stack as we asked them to do?" were among the questions asked by the administrators of Carmel's big clean-up drive. The answer is that they will and that they are doing it.

Only a few misunderstandings and complaints marred the smooth operation of the clean-up this week. We don't know at this point the full details of the value of the salvage collected, but you'll be informed very soon.

In the meantime "Congratulations, Carmel, on a fine piece of cooperation."

CD SHOW NETS $340 FOR DEFENSE EQUIPMENT

If you attended the CD show last Sunday night you saw a specimen of the type of equipment Carmel needs to buy. You also saw Carmel turning out in fine shape to help raise the money for this kind of equipment.

It was "Standing Room Only" by the time the curtain opened for the first number of the program. Artists were generous with encores, and the reception at the Carmel Art Gallery after the show was another indication that this city and surrounding territory can get together for a worthwhile cause.

Bartender Sought In Sade's Robbery

Carmel police have broadcast requests for the arrest of John S. Grant, a bartender, employed at Sade's tap room in Carmel for the past two weeks and who left town Tuesday night of this week after the place had been robbed of about $600 in cash.

The burglary was discovered Wednesday morning when the bookkeeper entered the famous restaurant and tap room at 8 o'clock. Paul Swanson, the manager, had left at 3:15 o'clock that morning after caching the day's receipts in checks and money in various hiding places in the building. The fact that the thief, after breaking the glass in the front door and unlocking it, had rifled these hiding places indicates his knowledge of Swanson's habits of secreting the money. The bartender sought had checked out of his rooming house in Carmel Tuesday night and taken a taxi for Salinas at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. He failed to report for duty at 11 o'clock that morning.

Bluejackets Tea And Bridge May 12

The chairman of Bundles for American Bluejackets, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Jr., called a meeting last Friday. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. M. V. B. MacAdam.

Mrs. Margaret Monk of Carmel and Hollywood has been selected as chairman for radio work. She spoke for the sailors over KDON Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.

Plans are progressing for the big bridge tea to be given at Pine Inn, Tuesday, May 12, at 2 p. m. If you do not play bridge be sure and come for the entertainment and tea. Tables are $2. Single admission is 50 cents at the door.

Stanton Again Heads Chest

Three past presidents of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest—Robert Stanton, Dr. D. T. MacDougal and Roudi Partridge—accepted the nominations for the respective offices of president, vice-president and treasurer, and were unanimously elected at the annual meeting held April 27. Trustees elected are Vito Alioto, the Rev. Constantine Badesen, Mrs. Gordon Beall, W. H. Burnham, Tom Coughran, Edward David, Albert Davis, Anita Doud, Mrs. James Doud, Mrs. John Gratiot, Mrs. Ed. Gross, Mrs. Norman Hasselo, Mrs. W. H. Hargrave, Mrs. Peter Hay, Vernon Hurd, Norman Larson, Duncan Murray, Mrs. Chester Shephard, Charles C. Shepherd, Ed. Simpson, Mrs. Stanley Simonsen, Frank Shea, Eben Whittlesey, Mrs. Mast Wolfson, Howard Veit, S. F. B. Morse and Mrs. Ralph Young.

The summing up of the reports of the seven agencies that are submitted yearly to all trustees showed a concerted effort to keep their programs flexible to meet changing conditions. Both the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts have definite service programs to assist Civilian Defense offices. The relief agencies report that the closing of canneries, the alien evacuation, the constant flow of incoming job-seekers for work at Fort Ord, brought many emergency cases which could not be turned over to the county because of residence regulations, but which nevertheless could not be left uncared for.

As usual the administrators of each agency were present for any questions from the floor concerning their activities.

THE CYMBAL'S Telephone Number is One-One Hundred.

Pupils of June Delight Plan Recital May 23

The June Delight Pupils' Dance Recital, a yearly feature in Carmel, is scheduled for May 23, at 8 p. m., in the Sunset auditorium.

There will be ballet, Spanish dances, tap, character dances and just about everything imaginable. A musical comedy number made up of the older pupils promises to be one of the highlights of the show.

These June Delight dancers have been entertaining the men in uniform every Sunday at the Monterey USO for nothing more than the pleasure of seeing everyone has a good time. Last Sunday they danced at Red Cross hospital Service Club No. 1.

For the recital there will be nine different Spanish dances and at least six group and solo ballet numbers. These of course will be sandwiched in amongst a variety of routines. The costumes, designed by Carol Edwards, are all new, clever and eye-catching.

The sad story of a SOBoteur

There is a man who lives in the Land of Plenty — plenty of automobiles.

He hadn't a care in the world—not even one for his car.

"Why get the chassis all greasy?" he often said.

"No use to deliberately pour water down the radiator — it's only liable to rust the cooling system."

"Why stuff air inside your tires when there is so much of it on the outside of them?"

"I have one hard and fast rule: Drive hard and fast, then trade in for a new model!"

But alas, the other day the Man's motor suddenly expired like a lease.

He tinkered and tinkered till there wasn't a tink left.

He pattered and pattered but not a cylinder would putt. At last, in deep despair he sat down and sobbed and sobbed.

A passing Motorist stopped and, hearing the Man's sad story, said:

"Weep no more my laddie. You can't get a new car but you can conserve this one. Any Shell Service Station Dealer or Manager will take over the Upkeep of your vehicle."

Smiling through the tears the Man exclaimed: "I will go to the Shell Experts! Hereafter my car will get all the breaks — except all those caused by neglect."

"Neglect in these times," declared the Motorist, "is a form of sabotage. America needs every piece of transportation. Just adopt this hard and fast rule:

"Care for your Car
for your Country!"

PERSONALITIES & PERSONALS

Mary Helen Showered

Without so much as a "surprise, surprise!" Mary Helen Alexander fell neck deep into a bridal shower given for her by Jean Hyde Monday night at the Frederic Burt home. Present to see that she wasn't launched into the sea of matrimony without a few gifts to act as ballast were Gretchen Neikirk, Mrs. Marie Fry, Mrs. Joseph B. McCarthy, Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Jean Hyde, Mrs. Royden Martin and Dawn Overhulse. Coming in later to get their share of the refreshments were Thirty, the dog; Monty, the cat, and Frederic Burt, master of the house.

New Chiseling

Harvey Higley has temporarily deserted the brush and palette for the chisel and lathe. He is now taking the machinists' course at Monterey High, the adult school, of course. Working approximately nine hours a day, he has about half a day Saturday which he devotes to his painting. Needless to say, he's not getting a great deal done.

Pauline Up and Goes Away

Pauline Meeks packed her hand-bag, put on her other shoes, powdered her nose and bought a one-way ticket for San Francisco last Saturday morning, leaving The Cymbal flat on its back. She says she's never coming back; that she's terribly bored with all of us here. In reality she's gone to a job in San Francisco and honestly she is wishing right now she hadn't. Our devastating editorial comment is that she's tried that little stunt before—and it hasn't worked.

New Chef at Big Sur

W. H. Raymond of Big Sur Lodge has procured the services of Paul Lollare, widely experienced culinary artist, for this season. Lollare was chef at the Hotel Bordeaux in France for three years and spent one year as chef on the French Line luxury liners, before coming to America where he has been employed at the Hotel New Yorker and other prominent hostleries. The new chef comes to Big Sur Lodge from the well known Deep Well Guest Ranch at Palm Springs.

Smith Show at Stanford

Howard Smith, one of the many Carmel artists who are really stepping out, is having a one-man show at the Stanford University gallery. It starts this week.

Lester Rowntree South

Mrs. Lester Rowntree, author and authority on all California wild flowers, visited Santa Barbara over the past week-end and was a guest at El Encanto Hotel. She and her host, Frank J. McCoy, always have lengthy discussions on plants, shrubs, flowers and trees. Her Carmel Highlands home is a center for horticulturalists.

Cecily Sayers Visits Here

It would take a minor cataclysm to tear the busy Charles Sayers away from his work in the City now, so when Mary Burr deserted Carmel and left the old Sayers home in the woods empty, it was up to Cecily Sayers to come down and see how things were going. She arrived in Carmel on Sunday, and has been sandwiching visits with friends in between working in the garden and putting some finishing touches on the house.

At the Lodge

Cocktails, enhanced by the luxurious surroundings of Del Monte Lodge and flavored by the broad, sweeping view of Carmel from the north side of the bay, were enjoyed by 33 guests of Mrs. Lester Dewar on Thursday, April 30. After a delicious luncheon everyone settled down for an enjoyable afternoon of bridge.

Madeleine's Baby Dies

We announced last week the birth of a daughter to Mrs. William E. Gagen, the former Madeleine Curry. We received the sad news this week of the death of the baby.

Driving to Convention

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Travis of the First Baptist Church of Monterey are taking a month vacation soon. They are driving to Nebraska, their home state, and from there Mr. Travis will go to Cleveland, Ohio, to a Northern Baptist convention.

Hither and Yon

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilkinson and their son, John, are spending the week with Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Anderson. Through the courtesy of authoritative sources and military headquarters the Wilkinsons were permitted to see the sun come and go for three short days.

Staying in the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco this week were Mrs. Harry D. Bland and Mrs. John Porter of Carmel. It's just possible that they were looking for that rarest of all California products—sunshine.

Mrs. W. H. McKinley and her son, Robert, and his wife, all of Kansas City, Mo. were the week-end guests of Mrs. E. W. Ten Winkel. They were down from San Jose where Robert is stationed in the army.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Darling have left Carmel for a visit in Denver. They expect to be gone for two weeks or more.

Mrs. Claribel Zuck arrived in Carmel last week after driving Mrs. Jonathan Wainwright back to New York. She made the trip home on the train.

Noel Sullivan entertained his nephew, Fred Murphy, of San Francisco, and his nephew's friend, Lieut. Jack Leahy of the Navy, over the past week-end at Hollow Hills Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Haskins of Los Angeles are spending a week or two at their Carmelo and Tenth streets home. Staying with them are Mrs. Fred Farr and small son, Sammy, and Mrs. Robert Niven of Los Angeles.

Tommy Hudson is down from the University of California, happy that school is almost over, and that he has only one more final to take. On May 19 the remaining part of the Pt. Lobos Hudsons, that is, Tommy, his mother, Mrs. L. J. Hudson, and the two younger boys, David and John, will leave for Washington, D. C., to join the real commander of the family, Captain Hudson, recently arrived in the U. S. after a breath-taking trip from the Orient.

Tommy will remain in Washington for the summer, after which he will return to school at Berkeley or Davis. Alan, the oldest Hudson boy, is just finishing his senior year at Annapolis and will soon be ready for the service.

Mrs. Byington Ford will leave in a few days for Southern California to spend a week with her daughter, Roe Arlen.

Gretchen Ellyia and Schatz Hegron attended the Flower Show in Oakland last week and are still up in the bay region.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eyttinge have returned to their home at Camino Real and Seventh from a visit to New York where they had a gay time taking in all the talked-about plays. On the way back they stopped off in St. Louis and Denver.

NAMES NEEDED FOR CARMEL HONOR ROLL

Strangely enough we find that there is no way to get a complete list of names of Carmel boys in the armed services from official sources. The CD publicity department is now digging out a list of these names from back files of newspapers and other sources. However, it will help to have names telephoned in to us.

If you have a son, brother, or husband in any of the services now, telephone 1924-W, give us his name and his branch of service. This list is being compiled with a view to putting up in a prominent place the honor roll of lads who are now doing more than any of us back here to get this thing over with.

So, Godwin To Be The Poundman

Carmel has burned the bridges between itself and the Humane Society and its Shelter in Monterey.

At Wednesday night's meeting Councilman Fred Godwin, commissioner of health and safety, was authorized to sign a contract with the county whereby the county's animal shelter at Marina will take our stray dogs, to the number of not more than 10 at a time, arrange for their return to owners who claim them, and put others out of the way, for the remuneration of $25 a month.

In other words, the city will be paying $300 a year for dog service where it formerly paid $400 to the Peninsula animal shelter, and declined last year to increase this amount to $600. Godwin said that we had saved from $600 to $700 the past year by severing connections with the Peninsula society and that this money had gone into the general fund for other important purposes.

The county, however, under the new arrangement, will give us no dog-catching or license collecting service. We've got to pick up the stray or unlicensed dogs and get them over to Marina. Perhaps Godwin will cart 'em in his station wagon, but he opines as how he will hire a dog catcher, and at a saving, he thinks. Because the additional licenses we will be able to collect because of fear of the dog catcher will pay for his services.

Under the arrangements with the county, any animals can be reclaimed by paying the city

$2.50 and getting a license. Armed with the license the dog owner can go to Marina and get his dog.

We still don't know what's going to happen if you find a sick or stray dog on your front steps and call the city about it. Guess Freddie will come and get it, we dunno.

MRS. LOUISA PASSAIGUE DIES AT HOME HERE

Mrs. Louisa Passaigue, a Carmel resident for the past 16 years, and mother of Mrs. Marie Gordon and Emile Passaigue, died at her Carmel home last Saturday evening.

She was 85 years old and a native of Charleston, S. C. Besides her son and daughter she leaves two grandchildren in Carmel, Emile, Jr., and Frances Passaigue.

The Rev. C. J. Hulsewse officiated at the services at All Saints Church last Monday. The pallbearers were Paul Prince, Willard Wheeler, Alfred Wheldon, George Seidenbeck, Arthur T. Shand and Harry Downie.

Over the CRACKER BARREL AT ROSIE'S

We hear that:

Si Hitchcock is getting so interested in his defense vegetable growing that he can't handle the situation of light-watching all alone and last week the Robles sheriff got a call from Irene Baldwin to come up and turn off the lights in the house next door to Mott's place where the tenants had gone off and left them burning for a couple of days. It's against the law, in these days of black-outs, to leave your lights on when you go away for over night, so Stuart had to do the job even if it was his night off duty. Mott certainly keeps his mind on his onions.

Mrs. Dr. Stubbs had a very serious accident the other day when she stepped off a steep bank at her home and broke her leg. The house-boy wasn't able to do anything to help her, but fortunately Sheriff Falkenthal came by just about then and got her into the house and as comfortable as could be expected, when the Doctor arrived and they took her to the Monterey hospital. The Cracker Barrel extends sympathies.

The Stuart Schooners came down for a week's visit and some fishing, but it looks like the work in the shipyards where Schooney is now working must have taken some of the fishing knock out of him, because he caught only eight. Better luck next time, says Mrs. S.

George Vargas, whose draft number is getting near, went to San Francisco to join up and is now waiting to be sent to the Presidio of Monterey and from there to no one knows where. "Mickey" (Mrs. V.) is helping Gracie Lang at her dairy duties since her recent illness. Gracie had a pretty bad spell with flu and is just now gaining back her lost pounds.

As a fine demonstration of rubber conservation and as a splendid example the valley is proud of Lady Muriel of the Laureles Rancho. Having a lot of horses and rigs of various sorts she is having the horses broken to driving and has just bought a very fine new trotter. She uses the run-about to pick up the valley Red Cross workers who roll bandages at the first-aid station on the hill in back of her house. Peanuts Seattine drives and is getting a big kick out of it. He is just waiting for Shorty Imlay to get the team used to pulling the brake-wagon, and then he can drive a team of two and maybe four. The brake-wagon was bought some years ago for hunting parties and for showing Lady Muriel's horses at shows, but it's going to be mighty hand because it carries ten.

Sure signs of summer up here are:

The pool at the Lodge full of water and very tasty-looking these warm days, with the gay umbrellas and all.

Rudy Bramer coming back to tend the thirst emporium for Bill.

Week-enders running around in white shorts and bare mid-riffs.

Fourteen hundred new flower plants of all varieties being set out in the gardens at the Wolferman place.

And dancing on the platform by moonlight at Rosie's on Saturday nights. (Only part of the famous dance team of Bill and Gert will be here this summer, for Gert has gone to Santa Monica where Paul is engaged in defense work, but Bill will be with us and maybe do some fine solo dances for us.)

EVA MAYER IN MOVIES AND OUT OF 'EM

Remember Eva Mayer? She was the queen in "Make Believe", the Christmas play given at the Playhouse and directed by Charles McCarthy four years ago. She's delightfully English, you know, and has a lot of personality. Well, she's in the movies, at times, in small, but important parts. She poked her head over The Cymbal's Dutch door this week, stopping over in Carmel on her way to San Francisco. But she doesn't know when she'll be called back to Hollywood for a part in Fox's production of "The Pied Piper" and, later, she thinks, in M. G. M.'s "Random Harvest". She's Eva Drake in the movies—she explains that she didn't want to embarrass Mr. Mayer.

VARDA DECORATES LIAL SHOP IN CARMEL

Jean Varda, that "ultra-modern" artist, as the dearth-of-terms critics call him, has done some decorating touches at Lial's Music Shop in the Pine Inn Building on Ocean Avenue. The two windows, calling attention to the proposal that you can turn in your old and broken phonograph records for new ones, were done by him, as well as what might be called a mural on the back wall above the counter. All the musical instruments in the world are scrambled in a 20 square-foot space and in the midst of them is a "Sweet Margaret." It's a small, but poignant piece of decorating he's done on the shop.

CARMEL MAN KILLED

In a collision on the state highway near Pinole, W. C. Kalte of Carmel was killed while the other passenger of his car, Mary Bigland, was seriously injured. Reports from the Richmond hospital said that Miss Bigland suffered a broken arm and severe cuts.

Ginger Rogers in "Roxie Hart" Tonight

At Carmel Theater the week-end double bill, starting tonight, is headed by "Roxie Hart", Ginger Rogers' latest picture. In the supporting cast are George Montgomery, recently seen here in "The Last of the Duanees", Adolphe Menjou, Spring Byington and Sara Allgood. The keynote of the hilarious film, which none too gently satirizes Chicago's criminal courts, is the line of Menjou's, "Brother, even Lucrezia Borgia couldn't be convicted in this town." Companion feature on the bill is the exciting "Torpedo Boat", with Richard Arlen and Jean Parker.

The feature on the three-day bill opening Sunday afternoon is "Johnny Eager", starring Robert Taylor-Lana Turner. It is Taylor's first gangster role, with his co-star playing an upper-crust debutante. Conspicuous in the supporting cast is Edward Arnold.

The midweek picture, starting Wednesday, May 13, is "A Yank on the Burma Road", with Laraine Day and Barry Nelson. It is the story of a two-fisted New York cab driver who goes to China to drive a truck convoy and in all essentials parallels the thrill-packed careers of hundreds of American boys now out in the Far East. On the same bill is the delightful "Sing for Your Supper", with Jinx Falkenburg and Buddy Rogers.

All Saints Services

Next Sunday, Mother's Day, marks the end of National Christian Family Week. The Holy Communion Services will be at 8 a. m. At 9:30 a. m. Junior Church and School. At 11 a. m. the Service of Morning Prayer with sermon message by the rector, the Rev. C. J. Hulsewe. Offertory anthem: "Go, Labour! Spend and Be Spent", (Orlando Gibbons—1623). The full Vested Choir will participate in this service.

At 8:15 p. m. the Service of Evening Prayer with the members of the Monterey County Nurses' Association in attendance, commemorating the birthday of Florence Nightingale. Message by the Rector, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe. The public is invited to this service.

Thursday, May 14, is Ascension Day. 10:30 a. m., Service of the Holy Communion. 2 p. m. on that day the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary.

LOVING MEMORY OF

LOUISA ANN PASSAILAIGUE

"She walked with God"; she knew the little ways
Wherein the spirit flowered in word and deed.
She lived her prayer; for her a hymn of praise
Was the quick answer to another's need.

She left the loftier temples of the mind
To tend the simple altars of the heart.
She knew the balm for grief, and how to bind
The wounds of sorrow with a subtle art.

She walked with God; she did not fear the sun;
She gave forth joy as from an inner light;
She took the task by weary hands begun
And gave it back renewed and strangely bright.

She kept the flame of friendship warm and glowing;
And life shall be the poorer for her going.

(Written on request by D. H. for Marjory Pegram.)

USO Has Real Talent for Boys

The USO had a swell time last Friday night when a brilliant Color Dance was given for the men in uniform. There were not only girls to entertain the khaki cut-ups, but a complete floor show (arranged by Marie Short) as well.

The Hildebrand sisters did one of their usual songs and dances, Jessie Joan Brown, shuttle shover deluxe, sang the old heart render, "Will You Be My Sweetheart", Connie Flavin was there with "Ta Ra Ra Boom Ti Ay", Eddie George sobbed out the very, very sad, "Goodbye Forever", and Chalmers Bock and Meta Gossler gave forth with a dance palsied by the bite of the ever-present jitter-bug. Dispersing patter between acts was Franklin Talsacs as master-of-ceremonies, while music was furnished by members of the 7th Infantry Band.

Wayfarer Services

"The Mother of Our Lord" will be the sermon theme Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer, Dr. James E. Crowther, pastor. Margaret Sherman Lea will play the following organ selection: "Ave Maria", Schubert; "Meditation" Debussy; "Carillon", Mulet. The sacrament of infant baptism will be administered. Visitors are cordially invited to celebrate Mother's Day in this hour of worship and inspiration. The service is at 11 o'clock.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity." These words from Hosea comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, May 10 in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Adam and Fallen Man."

GIRLS START BASEBALL

Into the sports world at Carmel High has come the favorite game of everyone. The girls of Carmel High may not be as good as DiMaggio, but they have just as much fun as the Brooklyn Dodger fans have when their "one and only" team is winning. Yes, as you probably have already guessed, the girls started to play softball.

Our popular umpire, Miss Gulmert, called "play ball", and the season was thus begun. The players are still a little rusty, but that is to be expected after not paying for almost a whole year.

Most of us need practice in catching as well as batting, so Miss Gulmert will give us drills on these skills. On Fridays we play baseball with the boys.

School Display

The displays during Education Week in the various rooms pertained to the subjects each class has been studying during the semester.

The English classes had clever illustrations of parts of speech and punctuation marks. This is a new system for getting the pupils to learn their grammar.

The history class displayed booklets on "Recent America." The idea of having their work on "show" certainly spurred the pupils on to better and faster work.

The home economics class had various samples of sewing that the students had completed during the school term.

In the study halls where no classwork was available, the drawings and posters from the art classes were used to give that studious look.

Junior Red Cross

Chairman of the Social Service, Grace Penha, and her committee consisting of Baird Barderson, Jack Fremont, John Graham, Russell Bohlke, Bill Monroe, Jason Harber, Mary Jane Reel, Irene Erickson, and Anita Jones made us the most outstanding committee in the Carmel High School Junior Red Cross.

This same group, with the exception of Irene Erickson and Anita Jones, makes up the Salvage Drive Committee. With the cooperation of all the teachers they have succeeded in making the students conscious of the terrific need of conservation of paper and of how we can help with the salvage of it. They have done this by having the students place used paper and partially used paper in separate, labeled boxes. The partially used paper is taken out of the boxes by the students when they need it. Now this group is salvaging rubber and non-ferrous metals.

Get Sticker If You Have Man In Navy

Every time J. C. Corley, chief electrician's mate and recruiting officer for the U. S. Navy the Peninsula district, comes in to The Cymbal office it means he has something of interest for those in Carmel who have anything whatsoever to do with the Navy.

This time it's a sticker; a sticker in red, white and blue. It is something that the family of every sea-going man will want to display proudly in the window of their home. It is 7½ x 10 in size; has an American flag emblazoned upon it, and, across a blue silhouette of the sea and ships are written the white words, "There is a man from this family in the Navy". It's a trim and attractive turn-out as most things coming from the Navy are.

All you have to do to get one is to call at the Carmel Fire House any Monday between the hours of 1 p. m. and 4 p. m., and Mr. Corley will see that you get your share. Or you can write to the Naval Recruiting Office, National Guard Armory, Salinas, and your sticker will be mailed to you at once.

There will be one stuck on The Cymbal window if you'd care to see exactly what they look like.

THE CYMBAL'S Telephone Number is One-One Hundred.

Crusaders Hear Bechdolt Talk

The Crusaders of Carmel Mission held their monthly Communion breakfast at Crespi Hall Sunday, May 3. Frederick R. Bechdolt, well known writer and civic leader, guest of honor and speaker, was introduced by Miss Micaela Martinez, counsellor of the Crusaders.

To those young people Bechdolt spoke on the problems they will have to solve after this war. He said that they would have to reconstruct a world in which they would meet the same problems of materialism and paganism existing today, and that, in the coming years, they would need not only the intellectual wisdom of the modern age, but also the spiritual wisdom of religion. He told these young Crusaders they were now preparing themselves spiritually as well as intellectually to meet the problems of the future and, by practicing their religion they are laying the foundations on which they can rely. He named three great Americans—Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt—who, he said, "in national crisis relied, not only upon their intellectual wisdom, but knelt down and prayed to God for spiritual strength and guidance".

Miss Martinez, on behalf of the Crusaders, thanked Bechdolt for his stimulating talk and said it was inspiring for these young Catholics to hear a non-Catholic express Christian ideals so understandingly. She assured him that his talk would be an incentive for the Crusaders to be better Catholics and better citizens.

Council Cuts Bach Festival Promotion Appropriation to $100 This Year

Carmel's Bach Festival this year will get only $100 in promotion money instead of $200 as formerly out of the treasury of the city of Carmel.

Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous can feel pretty lucky that they got that much. For a while there Wednesday night it looked dark for their chances of getting even a Lincoln penny out of that council.

After the letter from the Denny-Watrous Management was read and Mayor Keith Evans started the ball rolling by suggesting that perhaps the financial drain for Civilian Defense would make an appropriation for the Festival this year somewhat difficult, the rest of the councilmen swung into line with their expressions of love for the event as a desirable cultural activity in our midst, but—

Fred McIndoe and Bernard Rowntree were set against making any appropriation whatsoever, the former declaring with surprising confidence that "it ought to be easy for them to raise $200 among the merchants", and McCreery and Godwin seemed to be willing to vote no, also. Then Mayor Evans, probably deciding that he had started the thing off on the wrong foot, made a few remarks in favor of giving the Festival help and himself made the motion for an appropriation of $100. The other members voted eye on this, with the proviso that the Denny-Watrous Management be notified that it is possible that next year there will be no funds whatever for the Festival.

Not So Successful

The Peninsula Tire Rationing Board didn't do so well. Over the signature of Mrs. Ida B. Newberry, the Carmel member of the board, a letter was read asking for $5 or $10 a month from Carmel to help bear the cost of office maintenance and supplies. The council couldn't see this and referred the letter to the board of supervisors.

The Greyhound Depot Taxi wrote to the council asking for additional taxi parking space at the curb on the west side of Dolores street, south of Sixth (they now have one space) and the council decided to investigate as "a committee of the whole. Expressions of opinion appeared to be against it.

A petition, signed by 35 people, mostly business men and women on Ocean Avenue, asked the council to rescind the license to the gypsy fortune tellers now operating in the Ewig building on Ocean avenue between San Carlos and Mission. The council couldn't see that it had any legal right to take such action, but said it would investigate the situation and did instruct the city attorney to draw up a new and stiffer ordinance to regulate fortune telling. In answer to questions it was learned from the city attorney that of the three Peninsula cities Carmel is the only one which licenses fortune tellers.

Whittlesey Says It

The gypsy discussion brought out one touch of humor. Eben Whittlesey, attorney, representing the fortune tellers, remarked that there had been complaints about the gypsies beckoning to persons passing their window. "With economic conditions what they are," he said, "there are probably a lot of Ocean Avenue business people who would like to snare customers the same way."

The city hall janitor got a $5 a month raise, from $20 to $25. He got off a nice one, too, when Councilman McCreery commented that $25 was a lot to pay for twice-a-month cleaning. The janitor nearly had apoplexy. "Twice-a-month?" he hollered. "Why, I clean this building from stem to stern and pennant to keel every day. If I cleaned it only twice a month you wouldn't be able to find that table you fellers are sittin' around for the dirt and dust in here."

The council members slid under the table simultaneously, voting aye in unison as they slid.

Peter Mawdsley was again hired to do the annual audit and to keep at the job of doing the budget. He'll get a flat $300 for the one and $50 a month for the other.

City Clerk Saidee Van Brower asked the council for the usual $25 for extra help in making up the assessment roll. Rowntree was dead against it. He voted no, but the rest of the council capitulated to her. Saidee demanded to know if Rowntree wanted his "no" vote to go into the minutes. She asked it over and over. Rowntree, inscrutable, and chewing his cheroot, offered as how he didn't care, or he didn't care much whether it did or not. Which means that if he runs for the council again he'll get as many absentee votes as there are swastikas in the American flag.

LA COLLECTA HEARS BOOK REVIEW ABOUT INDIA

La Collecta Club met at the home of Mrs. Vive Harber Wednesday afternoon and heard Mrs. George Ricketson read a review of the book, "Christ of Indian Road", by E. Stanley Jones, telling of missionary work in India. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ricketson and Mrs. Doris Templeton will have charge of the program.

Notable Speaker Is Offered by Carmel P.-T. A.

Next Tuesday afternoon, the Carmel P.-T. A. will hold its last meeting for the school term in the library at Sunset at 3 p. m.

Mrs. E. M. Seifert, the incoming president, will be there to accept the gavel from Mrs. Frank Timmins, who has presided for the past year and to announce her stand in committees for the coming term. It is hoped that a large gathering of members will be there to greet the new officers and bid farewell to the retiring crew.

Mrs. Katherine Birch, who is a personality improvement and speech specialist, will be the speaker for the day. The P.-T. A. has tried many times to get Mrs. Birch for its program, for she is considered a fine speaker. Her topic will be "How Can We Help Our Children?" and will be extremely interesting and helpful to mothers, particularly now, when the home influence does mean so much in keeping the child's physical and mental balance.

This talk is following out the Parent-Teachers' project for the past year—National Defense with reference to defense of the home. The talks in the past meetings have been on home culture, nutrition and general health checkup.

Mrs. Birch, who was a teacher in Gonzales schools, is highly recommended by all who have heard her speak. Tea will be served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. John Jansen and Mrs. Harold Bartlett will be hostesses.
